ORDERS & DELIVERY

Cancelling an Order

Customers may sometimes need to cancel a purchase because they ordered the wrong product, entered incorrect information, or changed their plans. PixelForge aims to handle cancellation requests as quickly as possible while explaining any limitations that apply once an order has entered the shipping process.

The possibility of cancelling an order depends primarily on its current processing and shipping status.

Cancelling Before Dispatch

An order that has not yet been dispatched can generally be cancelled by contacting PixelForge customer support. Customers should submit their cancellation request as soon as possible to increase the likelihood that the warehouse can stop the shipment.

To request cancellation, customers should provide their order number, the email address used during checkout, and a short explanation of which products they wish to cancel.

PixelForge will review the order status and confirm whether cancellation is possible. Sending a cancellation request does not automatically mean that the order has been cancelled.

Orders That Are Being Prepared

Orders with the status Processing or Preparing for Shipment may already be undergoing warehouse handling. In these situations, PixelForge will attempt to stop the order before dispatch, but cancellation cannot always be guaranteed.

Some orders are packed and handed over to shipping providers shortly after processing begins. If the shipment cannot be stopped, the customer may need to follow the return procedure after delivery.

Customers should avoid placing duplicate cancellation requests, since multiple messages may make it more difficult for support staff to follow the case efficiently.

Cancelling an Order After Dispatch

Once an order has been dispatched, it can normally no longer be cancelled through the standard order cancellation process.

Customers who no longer want the products should instead follow the applicable return procedure after receiving the shipment. The Return Policy explains the conditions and steps involved in returning purchased products.

Customers should not assume that refusing a delivery or leaving a package uncollected is equivalent to an approved cancellation. Uncollected shipments may require additional handling and should be discussed with support.

Partial Order Cancellation

Customers may request cancellation of individual products within an order while keeping the remaining items. Partial cancellation is possible when the affected products have not yet been dispatched and the warehouse can adjust the order.

If the cancellation reduces the remaining order value below the free shipping threshold of 1,500 SEK, the final shipping cost may need to be recalculated. Any resulting changes will be explained before the adjustment is confirmed.

If a product has already been shipped separately, it must normally be handled through the return process instead.

Cancelling Prebuilt Gaming PCs

Prebuilt gaming PCs may require assembly, configuration, and testing before dispatch. Customers should therefore contact support immediately if they wish to cancel an order for a gaming PC.

Standard prebuilt configurations can generally be considered for cancellation before dispatch. Orders involving specially requested configurations may require additional review, particularly if assembly or customization has already started.

The applicable cancellation and withdrawal rights depend on the nature of the purchase and relevant consumer protection rules. PixelForge will explain the available options for the specific order.

Refunds Following Cancellation

When an order is successfully cancelled, PixelForge initiates a refund using the original payment method whenever possible.

Refund processing normally begins within two business days after cancellation has been confirmed. The time required for the money to appear in the customer's account depends on the payment provider and may take an additional 3–5 business days.

For orders paid through an invoice or instalment provider, the payment provider may need to adjust or cancel the outstanding payment separately.

Customers should keep the cancellation confirmation until the refund has been completed.

Changing an Order Instead of Cancelling

If a customer only needs to correct an address or change a product, cancellation may not always be necessary. Support may be able to update the order before dispatch.

Changes to products, quantities, or delivery addresses cannot be guaranteed once warehouse processing has started. Customers should contact support rather than placing a replacement order immediately, unless instructed otherwise.

Contacting Customer Support

Cancellation requests should include the order number and enough information to identify the purchase. PixelForge will confirm whether the request has been approved and provide further instructions if the order cannot be stopped.

For information about when products are normally dispatched, see Delivery Times. For orders already in transportation, see Order Tracking. For products that have already been delivered, consult the Return Policy.